A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

PRESIDENT

Leslie E. Wong

To Our Gators on Their Graduation Day,

After years of perseverance, diligence and growth, you have arrived at the day we celebrate the achievement of your degree and the place you have earned among learned people. I am proud to congratulate you on your graduation day.

Each of you has taken a unique path that has led you to this pivotal moment in your lives, from part-time jobs and full-time academic schedules, your hard work is realized as you reap the benefits of your sacrifices. I am honored to meet you at the finish line this day, May 24, 2018, as your faculty, mentors, peers, friends, distinguished guests and family join together to commemorate your achievement.

From the day you set foot on this campus, you have been one of ours. Today, you go on to become a graduate of San Francisco State University with a place in a community striving for excellence and contributing to the world we live in.

Take this moment to acknowledge the growth in character, mind and body that you have experienced by investing in your education and ultimately your future. You have acquired skills, knowledge and values enabling you to become a positive force of change in the world around you, challenging life's most rigid obstacles and solving the most perplexing questions. Allow me to give you the last study guide of your education at San Francisco State University: Own your own mind because now you are the answer.

It has been said many times, but it proves true, nonetheless, this is just the beginning. I am confident that you will go on to do extraordinary things in your life that will continue to make your San Francisco State University family proud.

Thank you for growing with us. I look forward to seeing you on the field at AT&T Park.

Sincerely Yours,

Leslie E. Wong

A MESSAGE FROM THE CHANCELLOR

CHANCELLOR

Timothy P. White

Dear Class of 2018,

Today, you are surrounded by your peers, loved ones and the entire California State University community — all those who supported you in your journey.

Indeed, celebrate the faculty who deepened your knowledge and expanded your horizons. Celebrate the counselors, advisors, librarians, tutors, coaches, facilities and support staff who created the environment for your success. Celebrate your family, friends and colleagues whose support and belief in you never wavered.

But most importantly, know that we are here to celebrate you — your determination, passion, drive and vision for the future — both your own future and the one you will create for the world.

As new opportunities await you, so too do new responsibilities. For you are now and always part of the CSU alumni family. You join a successful, impactful and generous community more than 3.4 million strong. Together, you build a better tomorrow for your neighbors, for the United States and for our world.

So as you start a new chapter, I encourage you to stay connected to the CSU, both your campus and the larger university. Connect with classmates, seek out faculty as mentors and join alumni chapters. Look for opportunities to give back. Support the generations who seek to follow in your footsteps.

California State University Class of 2018, you are ready. I look forward to all that you will accomplish.

Sincerely,

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

M.D., MHSA, MDiv

Ramona Tascoe came to San Francisco State University to pursue a special triple major in political science, sociology and psychology. But as a result of her fearless commitment to her ideals, she also became an essential part of the University's enduring legacy.

In 1967, Tascoe took part in campus protests after George Murray, a graduate student and part-time English instructor, was suspended because of his activism and outspoken support for equity and accuracy in higher education. Among the protestors' demands: that the University rehire Murray and create a Black Studies Department.

The protests grew into the historic student strike of 1968 that would eventually lead to the creation of the College of Ethnic Studies. But before that victory, there were many intense confrontations — and in the midst of one of them, Tascoe became the first of the student protestors to be arrested.

That was a courageous development for a young woman whose protective father often told her “don't talk race...assimilate.” Born in Louisiana, where “Jim Crow” was not a stranger, Tascoe moved with her family to the more hopeful horizons of San Francisco in 1953. Despite her father's advice, Tascoe joined the rapidly emerging Black Students' Union, found her voice and grabbed the baton of civil rights and social justice. In the years since, she's continued to forge her own independent path. The esteemed physician and mentor Dr. Carlton Goodlett described her as “one who speaks in ways so clear that the blind could see and the deaf could hear.”

Tascoe earned her medical degree from the University of California, San Francisco in 1979. And she wasn't done with higher education there: She later earned both a master of public administration degree from the University of San Francisco and a master of divinity degree from Berkeley's Graduate Theological Union, after which she was dually ordained under American Baptist and Progressive National Baptist Ministry.

Though she's practiced as an internal medicine specialist in Oakland for decades, Tascoe has also put her unique mix of skills to work on behalf of communities around the world. She's led medical missions to Kenya, Tanzania, the Democratic Republic of Congo, Angola, India and Sri Lanka. And she's worked extensively with Haiti's Ministry of Health and the University General Hospital of Haiti, that nation's largest public hospital.

“While she was a student here, Dr. Tascoe fought to make our university more broad-minded and inclusive,” said San Francisco State President Les Wong. “She's gone on to make the world a better place as a physician and spiritual leader. She's an alumna any university would be proud to claim, and I'm immensely pleased that she's agreed to share her story with this year's graduates.”

HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENT

RANDY HAYES

Environmental Activist

Rainforest Action Network founder Randy Hayes has received one of the highest compliments anyone working to protect the planet could hope for: The Wall Street Journal called him “an environmental pit bull.” He earned that label by fighting tenaciously for the environment and human rights for decades.

Born in West Virginia, Hayes went to Ohio’s Bowling Green State University for his undergraduate studies. Not long after graduating, he moved to a Hopi Indian reservation in Arizona and founded his first environmentalist group, Friends of the Hopi, which campaigned to block coal mining on tribal land. A few years later, he came to San Francisco State to work toward a master’s in environmental planning. His thesis project — a documentary about coal and uranium mining and its impact on Native Americans — didn’t just earn him an M.A. It won Hayes (who can trace part of his family tree to the Blackfeet tribe) the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Science’s Student Academy Award for Best Student Documentary in 1983.

Two years later, Hayes teamed with fellow activist Mike Roselle to launch the Rainforest Action Network (RAN), a nonprofit organization dedicated to preserving pristine woodlands and protecting the human rights of indigenous people. Through grassroots action (including protests and boycotts) and partnerships with other non-governmental organizations, RAN has persuaded companies like Burger King, Mitsubishi, Bank of America and General Mills to drop policies that accelerated deforestation and other forms of environmental destruction.

Hayes served as RAN’s president for years and worked on behalf of the environment in an array of other roles, as well. He served as president of the City of San Francisco Commission on the Environment, director of sustainability during Jerry Brown’s term as mayor of Oakland and a member of the International Forum on Globalization’s board of governors. Through it all, he remained a tireless (and, by his own admission, sometimes combative) champion for environmental stewardship and respect for human rights. Today, he is executive director at Foundation Earth, a new organization rethinking a human order that works within the planet’s life support systems.

“I’m somewhat of a lightning rod,” he once told The San Francisco Chronicle. “I get called a radical a lot. Webster’s definition of radical is ‘a root.’ Radicals get to the root of the problem. From that perspective, I’m proud of that label.”

HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENT

KENT NAGANO

Conductor and Music Director

For Kent Nagano, music has been a way to bring people together from day one — literally.

“My mother was a pianist, so music was introduced to the family from the moment we were born,” he said in an interview with Sonograma Magazine.

Born in Berkeley and raised in Morro Bay on California’s Central Coast, Nagano grew up playing the piano both at home with his family and as part of a church choir.

“For us, music was like a language,” he told Sonograma. “It was something that was integrated into our entire lives.”

Eventually, Nagano didn’t just integrate music into his life: He built his life around it. After studying sociology and music at the University of California, Santa Cruz, he came to San Francisco State for his master’s in music. He completed his M.A. in 1976, and not long afterward he landed his first conducting job, serving as an assistant conductor with the Opera Company of Boston. In 1978, he returned to his home town to become music director of the Berkeley Symphony Orchestra — a position he would hold for the next 30 years.

But just because he was committed to his orchestra in Berkeley didn’t mean Nagano was tied down to the Bay Area. In the years that followed, Nagano would work with symphonies around the world.

He has served as principal conductor and music director of the Los Angeles Opera, music director of Opéra National de Lyon in France and the Hallé Orchestra in England, artistic director and chief conductor of the Deutsches Symphonie-Orchester Berlin and general music director of the Bayerische Staatsoper (Bavarian State Opera). As a guest conductor, he’s worked with many of the finest orchestras in the world, including the Vienna, Berlin and New York Philharmonics. He is currently Music Director of Orchestre symphonique de Montréal, artistic advisor and principal guest conductor of Sweden’s Gothenburg Symphony, General Music Director of the Hamburg State Opera and Chief conductor of the Philharmonic State Orchestra Hamburg.

He’s also a member of the San Francisco State Hall of Fame, and in 1994 he was honored as the University’s Alumnus of the Year.

“Kent Nagano is someone our graduates can look to for inspiration,” said San Francisco State President Les Wong. “His journey — from playing music with his family in California to working with the best musicians on the planet — demonstrates just how far talent, passion and dedication can take you.”

2018 HOOD RECIPIENTS

The following students, who have achieved outstanding academic records at San Francisco State University, have been selected to represent the students of their respective colleges. On behalf of their classmates, they have received the symbolic investiture of the hood.

REPRESENTING BACCALAUREATE DEGREE CANDIDATES

Diane Christine Alar, Bachelor of Arts in Mathematics, College of Science and Engineering

Diane Christine Alar was interested in puzzles from an early age. That interest in problem-solving eventually led her to mathematical research.

Alar completed her bachelor's degree in Mathematics (Advanced Study) in Fall 2017 after only seven semesters. While at San Francisco State she worked on mathematics research with Professor of Mathematics Federico Ardila and also conducted two summers of research through the National Science Foundation's Research Experience for Undergraduates program, one at Iowa State University and the other at the Mathematical Sciences Research Institute in Berkeley. She's written two publications based on her work.

As a woman in a field dominated by men, she also found a home in Mathematistas, a campus group for women and other gender minorities in the field of mathematics. "There aren't a lot of people like me in mathematics research," Alar said. She drew inspiration from that group and other programs that brought together students of color in mathematics, and she hopes that she'll be able to create similar programs in her career as a mathematician.

Alar has been admitted to a Ph.D. program in Pure Mathematics at UC Santa Barbara, where she plans to study algebra and combinatorics.

Lucia Alvarez, Bachelor of Arts in Child and Adolescent Development, College of Health & Social Sciences

A computer engineer in her native Nicaragua, Lucia Alvarez immigrated to the United States in 2006 with her 11-year old son and became a substitute teacher in a bilingual classroom. There, she found a passion for teaching. "I fell in love with the children immediately," she said. "That's why I started with this new career."

Alvarez is graduating from San Francisco State with a bachelor's degree in Child and Adolescent Development with an emphasis on Early Childhood education. At the same time, she's worked full-time as a lead teacher with the Institute for Human and Social Development's East Palo Alto Head Start program.

At San Francisco State, she served as a leader and a mentor in the CAD PATH program. Her action research proposal focused on housing insecurity in young children, and she sees early-childhood education as something that has effects that reach far outside of the classroom. “My passion is giving back to the community,” Alvarez said. “As a teacher, I can support other people who struggle and help them improve their lives.”

With her degree she hopes to eventually move on to leadership roles in education, but always with a focus on advocacy for low-income families.

Olivia Conner, Bachelor of Science in Communicative Disorders, College of Education

As a high school student and at Monterey Peninsula College, Olivia Conner’s passions were music, theater, language and education. She considered many majors, but after observing a speech pathologist in action, Conner realized she had stumbled upon something special: an opportunity to use her passions to help people.

She transferred to San Francisco State University, declared her major as Communicative Disorders and immersed herself in the world of speech pathology. An active leader, Conner joined the campus chapter of the National Student Speech Language Hearing Association and became an officer.

In her junior year, she worked as an aide at a speech and language private practice and later served as a clinical assistant at SF State’s Communicative Disorders Clinic. Her interest in aphasia motivated her to join the Gray Matter Laboratory at SF State, where she continues to work. Conner works with Spanish-English bilingual clients with aphasia and contributes to ongoing research studies. A highlight of her senior year was serving as a mentor for fellow students and sharing her passion for the major. In addition to her extensive academic involvement and achievements, Conner was also a self-supporting student, working the same supervisory job at a major corporation during the four years of her bachelor’s program.

After graduation, she will spend a year as an English conversation assistant in Spain. She then plans to continue her education at the graduate level and looks forward to using her work to create a speech therapy program integrating music and theater arts.

Toni Eby, Bachelor of Arts in Women and Gender Studies, College of Liberal & Creative Arts

Toni Eby returned to school to earn a college degree 23 years after she completed high school. In between high school and college, Eby became enmeshed in sex trafficking and suffered repeated physical and sexual abuse. She was heavily addicted to drugs, which led to repeated run-ins with the criminal justice system. Eventually, she was referred to a program for survivors of sexual violence that helped her heal and gave her a fresh start. Since then, she’s used her personal experience to inspire and advocate for other survivors of sexual violence, with a particular focus on the LGBTQ community.

Eby came to SF State because she wanted to earn a degree in a field that would complement her life experience — Women and Gender Studies. For the past seven years, Eby has counseled clients at San Francisco SafeHouse, a transitional housing facility for homeless women who are leaving sex trafficking and other sexually exploitative situations — the same program from which she sought help 10 years ago. She currently works full time as an outreach and training manager. Majoring in Women and Gender Studies “was definitely one of the best decisions I ever made,” Eby said. She hopes to continue on to graduate school in social work to better serve women’s communities.

Megan Elizabeth Larkin, Bachelor of Science in Business (Accounting), College of Business

Megan Elizabeth Larkin is a lifelong San Franciscan who has always had a passion for working with numbers. She pursued a major in accounting as a way to enhance her knowledge and apply her skills toward helping companies operate in a financially sustainable way.

During her freshman year, Larkin joined the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program, a nationally recognized IRS program that provides free tax return preparation to low-income, elderly, limited English-proficient and disabled individuals. During her sophomore year, she became the youngest supervisor in the VITA program. What she valued most about this experience was helping those from underserved communities who came to her with no initial understanding of how to file their taxes. Many of the individuals she assisted were working as independent contractors for real-time ridesharing businesses and unaware of the additional tax complications in this “gig” economy. Larkin helped explain the concepts and implications so they could better plan for their future.

Following her junior year, she interned at PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC) in their industry tax practice team. She was offered a full-time position at the end of her internship at PwC and will begin in January, following the completion of her CPA exam. This summer, she has been offered a labor capital strategies internship with KPS Capital Partners through the Kalmanovitz Institute at Georgetown University. In this position, Larkin will help the private equity investment team identify prospective investments and prepare the relevant accounting.

Arianna Vargas, Bachelor of Arts in Latina/Latino Studies, College of Ethnic Studies and Bachelor of Science in Health Education, College of Health & Social Sciences, Minor in Education

Arianna Vargas is recognized for her outstanding leadership and academic achievement during her years as a double major in Latina/Latino Studies and

tion. She is an extremely bright and hard-working student who sets a high bar through her example of community-engaged scholarship and activism.

Vargas entered San Francisco State University as a freshman and gracefully carried over her activist and advocacy work from high school into the larger context of the University. She has established herself as a vocal advocate for youth, focusing on the rights and needs of underrepresented youth of color and issues of public health in underserved communities. Her many achievements add up to a pattern of leadership and advocacy for progressive change and community empowerment that reflects the core values of the College of Ethnic Studies.

Her association with the College of Ethnic Studies began at the tender age of 2, when her mother, Venecia Margarita (B.A., '02; M.S.W., '05), was a Raza Studies major and occasionally attended class with her baby in tow. Vargas learned from an early age that education is empowering, as evidenced by her impressive practice of community.

REPRESENTING MASTER'S DEGREE CANDIDATES

Max Czapanskiy, Master of Science in Geographic Information Science, College of Science & Engineering

After three years of working as a software developer for Microsoft, Max Czapanskiy decided a desk job wasn't for him. So he quit — and took a job studying seabirds on an island off the coast of Alaska.

Now Czapanskiy studies how wind patterns affect the movement of seabirds in Hawaii and is completing his master's degree in Geographic Information Science. He's currently preparing two publications based on his thesis research. "I love figuring out how systems work," he said. And the ocean and its inhabitants are a system overflowing with questions.

Czapanskiy took four years off while finishing his undergraduate degree before going into software engineering and spending several years as a seabird researcher with Point Blue and the U.S. Geological Survey. "Trying to decide my own path was the biggest challenge for me," he said. But at San Francisco State, and in his research lab in particular, he found a community that welcomed non-traditional students.

Czapanskiy has won both the Maxwell Scholarship and the Graduate Writing Award at San Francisco State, and twice worked as a teaching assistant in geographic information systems courses. He's also become a mentor for younger students. "As I've transitioned from being a junior to a senior member of the lab, it's been a pleasure passing on what I know to the newer students," he said.

In the fall, he'll start pursuing his Ph.D. at Stanford University's Hopkins Marine Station, where he'll study the movement of large whales.

Emily Elizabeth Holtz, Master of Business Administration, College of Business

Emily Elizabeth Holtz earned her undergraduate degree in Business from San Francisco State and later enrolled in SF State's MBA program. She was able to combine her interest in sustainability with information technology. As a graduate student, she designed an independent study course that focused on that intersection and wrote a research paper exploring how various information technologies could enable innovative solutions to some of the world's most pressing social, environmental and economic challenges. For her culminating experience project, she and a fellow classmate created a case study of the analytics cloud business unit at the software company SAP.

Holtz has served as a member and officer of Women in Business, a graduate student organization, where she collaborated with others to plan and coordinate events that promoted the personal and professional development of fellow SF State students. Holtz is a consultant focusing on the public sector at a global IT research and advisory firm, a position she accepted in January. Her role is to identify the technology needs of various government agencies and to facilitate the modernization of government systems.

Ellie Lobovits, Master of Arts in Anthropology, College of Liberal & Creative Arts

Ellie Lobovits is a filmmaker and activist. After she received her undergraduate degree from the University of Pennsylvania, she spent a year in Ethiopia working as a medical volunteer and English teacher.

While earning her graduate degree from SF State in Anthropology, she received a number of awards, including the Edward Kaufman Award, the Provost Award and the Carolyn Irene Howard Memorial Award. For her master's thesis, she made the documentary film "Birth on the Border," which tells the story of women crossing the border from Ciudad Juarez in Mexico to give birth at a natural childbirth center, Luna Tierra, in Texas. Many of these middle-class, well-educated and documented women faced abuse and threats from the border patrol. Her film opened in Oakland and helped raise funds for the clinic. Lobovits is a trained childbirth doula and a published writer. Her article "Where a River of Life Became a Border of Control," was published in the online magazine Sapiens.

Levalasi Loi-On, Master of Arts in Ethnic Studies, College of Ethnic Studies

When hunger strikes on San Francisco State's campus led to the creation of a Pacific Islander Studies program, Levalasi Loi-On was watching. "I applied because I wanted to support those efforts," she said. "As a graduate student, I'm proud of being a part of a group of students who are pushing for more representation."

Loi-On, who is Samoan, Tokelauan and Chinese, is graduating with a master's degree in Ethnic Studies. For her thesis, she gathered the stories of students and teachers in Pacific Studies programs in San Francisco to understand their effects on students' identities and academic and social development. In these courses, she explains, students and professors both can bring their identities into the classroom. "These classes stress the classroom as a canoe. Once you step in the canoe, we're paddling together, and we all hold knowledge," she said.

With Pin@y Educational Partnerships, Loi-On taught Filipino-American history to students at Balboa High School, and as a leader in the Pacific Islanders Club she supported the introduction of Pacific Studies courses at SF State. She also worked as an ASPIRE (Asian American and Pacific Islander Retention and Education) peer mentor coordinator to help build services for Pacific Islanders on campus.

Next, she hopes to teach Pacific Studies or Ethnic Studies at a university or community college. "I want to be where my people are," she said. "For me, it's really about service."

Steven Machek, Master of Science in Kinesiology, College of Health & Social Sciences

Steven Machek applied the same persistence he learned while becoming a powerlifter to his undergraduate and graduate work at San Francisco State University. Machek was inspired to earn his B.S. in Dietetics because he wanted to learn about how to maintain healthy weight through better nutrition. That knowledge in turn led him to Kinesiology, where he found that weightlifting, powerlifting and other sports improved his physical and mental health. His experience as a powerlifter in particular permeated every aspect of his life, including academics. "You don't make improvements unless you do something consistently over time," he said. Machek's master's thesis involves analyzing muscle tissues from an elite powerlifter and will be the first such comprehensive microscopy imaging study.

While working toward his master's degree, Machek was a researcher in the Muscle Physiology Laboratory, a teaching assistant and a founding member of the Kinesiology Department's Strength and Conditioning Club. Machek leaves for Texas in August to accept a fully funded Ph.D. position at Baylor University. Ultimately, he hopes to become a college professor and share his knowledge, experience and passion with others.

Angela Torres, Master of Arts in Education, Secondary Education, Graduate College of Education

As she graduates with her master's degree in Education, Angela Torres says she is not saying goodbye to San Francisco State University. In fact, she jokes that she has spent 19 years here — first getting her undergraduate degree, then a teaching credential and now her master's — with breaks in-between to teach high school math, including in Colombia, for 10 years. In her ongoing work for the San Francisco Unified School District, Torres has helped reform the teaching and learning of mathematics.

She said her academic life and teaching life inform each other: She brings what she has learned in her academic research to her job, and ideas from work to her research. Her job as a math specialist includes running a program that supports teachers to teach through an equity lens using workshops and coaching.

Torres said SF State gave her her first look at social justice and how particular systems perpetuate inequities for certain races and cultures. “Because I had that window opened, now I bring that into the work I do,” she said. She wants to see everyone excel at math, but especially to make sure that underrepresented minorities have the opportunity to be successful. She also brings her students to SF State and encourages them to apply. When she comes to campus, she is always rewarded by seeing “tons of beautiful, smart people of color” attending the University.

“I keep coming back in various ways,” said Torres. “I don’t see this as a goodbye. I’ll be back.”

ACADEMIC REGALIA

Participation in today's 117th Commencement exercises links our graduates and faculty with scholastic antiquity. Many of the rituals seen at this ceremony stem from the European Middle Ages, when the church was the center of learning. At that time, academic gowns were a common form of dress retained by the clergy when the laity adopted more modern styles. The early European universities were founded by the church, and students, being clerics, were obliged to wear the prescribed gown at all times.

ALL SAN FRANCISCO STATE GRADUATES wear special robes of royal purple, one of the University's official colors. The gown worn at the Commencement ceremony is indicative of the degree being awarded. Bachelor's gowns have pointed sleeves; master's gowns have oblong sleeves cut square at the end, with wrist openings; and doctoral gowns have bell-shaped sleeves with three velvet bands (symbolizing the third and highest academic degree) and velvet facings to the front. All gowns are designed to be worn closed, unlike many of their European counterparts.

ALL STUDENTS AWARDED bachelor's degrees wear a mortarboard cap, also of royal purple. On entering the stadium, the tassel is positioned to the right of the cap. During the ceremony, at the moment of graduation, the tassel is moved to the left of the cap, signifying conferral of the bachelor's degree. Students receiving master's degrees also wear a purple mortarboard, but with the tassel already positioned on the left of the cap. Students being awarded a doctoral degree wear a black velvet tam.

THE SIZE AND SHAPE of the academic hood and the width of its velvet edging also help to identify the level of the degree that the wearer has earned. Hoods designating the bachelor's degree (worn here today only by the students chosen to represent their colleges) are 36 inches; those for the master's degree are 42 inches; those for the doctoral degree are 48 inches and also include a cape, visible at the side. The shell of the hood is lined with the official color, or colors, of the college or university conferring the degree. San Francisco State University's are purple and gold. More than one color is often displayed in V-shaped stripes, known as chevrons. The color of the hood's velvet border indicates the field or discipline in which the degree is granted. SF State's master's degree hoods are edged in the following colors:

Business	Drab (light brown)
Education	Light blue
Ethnic Studies	Crimson
Health & Social Sciences	Gold
Nursing	Apricot
Liberal & Creative Arts	White
Science & Engineering	Gold

OUR FACULTY have earned degrees at top universities around the nation and the world. As they process into the stadium, their regalia make for a colorful display. The linings of their hoods (and sometimes the color of their gowns) identify the institutions from which they earned their degrees. Leading the Platform Party in the ceremony today is the chair of the Academic Senate, Professor Nancy Gerber, who carries the University mace, an ancient symbol of order and authority in both the civic and academic worlds.

PUTTING PASSION INTO ACTION FOR MORE THAN A CENTURY

For 119 years, San Francisco State University has distinguished itself as a vibrant center of scholarship, innovation and community engagement. Though it began as a school for local educators, today its more than 250,000 graduates are leaders in science, business, public service, journalism and the arts — virtually every sphere of activity — around the globe.

FOUNDED IN 1899 by an act of the California legislature, the San Francisco State Normal School was created to fill the city's acute need for well-trained, experienced teachers. The school's first location was a rented two-story building atop Nob Hill. The first graduating class — the class of 1901 — consisted of three dozen students, all women.

WITHIN A DECADE the normal school earned a solid reputation for its high-caliber graduates, innovative teaching methods and emphasis on practical experience. In the 1920s, the school began offering the bachelor of arts degree. When the Great Depression sharply curtailed the need for new teachers, the school expanded its programs to include a full liberal arts curriculum. In 1935, it became San Francisco State College. Its first master's degree, in education, was offered in 1949.

ENROLLMENT QUADRUPLED in the five years following World War II. To accommodate growing demand, the college moved in 1954 to its present campus near Lake Merced, which now encompasses more than 140 acres. To bring intellectual cohesion to its evolving curriculum, San Francisco State developed the General Education program — a nationally known model requiring all students to take a unified core set of courses. In 1961, the college joined what would become the 23-campus California State University system and in 1974 was renamed San Francisco State University.

TODAY, the University has a diverse student body of more than 29,000. The University offers numerous degree and certification: Bachelor's degrees in 75 academic areas with an additional 49 areas of concentration, Master's degrees in 60 academic areas with an additional 45 areas of concentration, Doctor of Education (Ed.D.) in Educational Leadership, a Ph.D. in Education with a concentration in special education, jointly with University of California, Berkeley, a clinical doctorate, a Doctor of Physical Therapy (D.P.T.) jointly with University of California, San Francisco, 14 credential programs and 46 certificate programs. While justifiably renowned as a teaching university, SF State is also associated with outstanding research and scholarly activity in the arts, sciences, business, health, humanities and many other disciplines. The University attracts world-class faculty as well as extensive grants and contracts for cutting-edge research.

SAN FRANCISCO STATE'S REACH extends far beyond the Lake Merced campus, as well. In Marin County, the University's Estuary & Ocean Science Center trains the next generation of marine scientists while monitoring the health of the Bay and its tidal marshes, eelgrass meadows and beaches. Located in the forests near the North Yuba River, the Sierra Nevada Field Campus gives students an immersive opportunity for learning about biological diversity, geosciences, hydrology, astronomy and more. And San Francisco State's College of Extended Learning, based at the Downtown Campus on Market Street, offers a variety of continuing education courses, academic credit certificates and professional development certificates designed to advance careers and expand opportunities.

THE UNIVERSITY also reaches out through its long-standing commitment to community service. Hands-on learning and engaged citizenship have been hallmarks of a San Francisco State education since its first president, Frederic Burk, chose Experientia Docet — Experience Teaches — as the school's motto. Acting on the principle that learning cannot be isolated from the world in which it is applied, the University partners with the community through many of its classes and a wide range of centers and institutes, including the Health Equity Institute, the Marian Wright Edelman Institute, the Veteran Documentary Corps and the Paul K. Longmore Institute on Disability. San Francisco State's Institute for Civic and Community Engagement was launched to connect students, staff and faculty members with service opportunities that strengthen both their skills and the surrounding communities.

AS A RESULT of these efforts, San Francisco State's leadership as a values-driven university is recognized nationally. The University is among a select group of schools in Princeton Review's Colleges with a Conscience — institutions of higher learning that possess both "an administration committed to social responsibility and a student body actively engaged in serving society." In addition, the campus was among the first U.S. colleges and universities to meet new classification criteria for community engagement established by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. In May 2011, the Corporation for National and Community Service selected SF State to receive its Presidential award, the highest federal recognition a college or university can receive for its commitment to community service.

SAN FRANCISCO STATE'S proudest achievement, however, remains the thousands of graduates who are putting the skills, insights and ideals nurtured at the University to work. The students graduating today join these legions of accomplished alumni who are putting their passion into action around the world — and making the world a better place in the process.

San Francisco State University has made every attempt to include in this program all persons deserving of recognition. Please note that this program contains only the names of graduates who applied for graduation by the April 1, 2018, program deadline. If there have been any errors or omissions, please accept our sincerest apologies. Corrections may be directed to the Registrar's Office: 415.338.2350.

YOUR SF STATE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION. STAY CONNECTED.

The San Francisco State University Alumni Association connects graduates to their alma mater and fellow Gators. Whether you stay in the Bay Area or move halfway around the world, you'll always have a supportive friend on campus at the SF State Alumni Association.

By becoming a member of the Alumni Association you'll not only stay in touch with your alma mater and a global network of proud Gators, you'll also receive ongoing support such as access to all CSU libraries, discounts on insurance packages, career development tools and invitations to Alumni Association member-only events. Plus, a portion of every membership goes to the Class Gift, benefiting the HOPE Fund Crisis Loan. Take advantage of our New Graduate Rate of $59 (normally $89) and become a member today!

AUDIENCE NOTES

RULES

Guests who enter the playing field or who throw (or attempt to throw) objects in the stands or onto the field are subject to ejection and criminal prosecution. They will also be held liable for any fines and/or damage.

ELEVATORS AND ESCALATORS

The elevators at the Willie Mays Plaza and 2nd & King entrances provide access to all levels of the park. The elevators at Lefty O'Doul Plaza and Seals Plaza provide access to the Promenade Level only. In addition, at Willie Mays Plaza there is an escalator that will move guests up before the ceremony and change direction after the graduate procession to bring guests down after the ceremony.

FIRST AID

The First Aid Station, located on the Promenade Level behind Section 132, is open during the ceremony to provide evaluation and treatment to guests for minor medical needs. Dignity Health physicians, nurses and emergency medical personnel staff the First Aid Station. King American Ambulance service is available for medical emergencies.

GUEST SERVICES OFFICE

Guest Services personnel are stationed at the Guest Services Office, located behind Section 119 on the Promenade Level, for wheelchair requests, lost and found items, information about public transportation, lost and found children and parents and a variety of other services. Concierge personnel are available to assist guests on the Alaska Airlines Club and Oracle Suite levels near the Willie Mays Clock Tower elevators.

LIVE STREAMING

The Commencement ceremony will be live-streamed for guests joining us off-site. A link can be found on the Commencement website: commencement.sfsu.edu.

LOST AND FOUND

If a guest has lost an item during the ceremony, he or she should contact the nearest Ballpark Operations or Guest Services staff member for assistance. Found items might also be turned in to Ballpark Operations or Guest Services staff. Items will be held for one week. Unclaimed items will be donated to charity. Guests may call Guest Services at 415.972.2156 and leave a detailed description of the lost item, including when and where they think the item was misplaced. Guests may also email lostandfound@sfgiants.com with this information.

PHOTOGRAPHS

We know this is a special day and that families and friends of graduates want to take photographs. Because of access restrictions, however, this is not possible. A professional photography company will be taking photos prior to graduates entering the ballpark. Graduates will receive order forms directly from the company.

RE-ENTERING THE BALLPARK

For safety reasons AT&T Park does not allow in and out privileges.

RESTROOMS

There are 52 public restrooms (21 for men, 21 for women and 10 family) located on all levels throughout the ballpark. Restrooms on the Promenade and View levels are painted yellow for easy identification, and all contain baby-changing tables.

SIGN LANGUAGE/CAPTIONING

Sign language interpreters are available. There are reserved seats for guests needing this service. Guest services can guide you to the available seats. In addition, the large screen will feature open captioning.

SMOKING

In accordance with San Francisco city ordinance, AT&T Park is a smoke-free facility with no smoking areas. Smoking is not permitted anywhere in the ballpark. Electronic smoking and any other vaporized smoking is not permitted anywhere inside AT&T Park.

Commencement occurs in a public venue and will be recorded and photographed for distribution through various SF State outlets. All audience members (or parents/guardians of minors attending the event) acknowledge that they may appear on these recordings and photographs by virtue of their attendance at or participation in Commencement, and agree to the University's use of photographed or videotaped materials through the University's websites, applications and other channels of communication.

This publication is available in alternative formats upon request. Contact the Office of Strategic Marketing and Communications, 415.338.1665, or visit commencement.sfsu.edu.

The University Corporation, SF State is pleased to host San Francisco State University's One Hundred Seventeenth Commencement, Thursday, May 24, 2018, San Francisco, California.

Class Gift 2018

Dream

Giving to the Class Gift is an excellent way for the San Francisco State community to give back to students in need. This year's 2018 Class Gift supports the Continue the Dream for Academic Excellence Scholarship Fund to help students pursue their academic goals. This opportunity is unique in that this scholarship is awarded based on a student's demonstrated commitment to help and support others with the achievement of their academic dreams, career aspirations or community service goals. It does not require evidence of a student's citizenship, residency, or related documentation.

As an added bonus, the San Francisco State University Foundation Board has generously offered to contribute $12,500 toward the Class Gift, benefitting the Continue the Dream for Academic Excellence Scholarship Fund. Plus, for every new graduate Alumni Association membership purchased, a portion of the dues will automatically be put toward the Class Gift. Give today and support SF State students!
