To Our Gators on Their Commencement Day,

After years of hard work and unimaginable disruptions, you have reached this important milestone — graduation. Today, we gather to celebrate your accomplishments and your perseverance. As with other recent classes, you are graduating having experienced extraordinary circumstances — the disruptions of the pandemic as well as political and social upheaval in the U.S. and around the world.

In spite of these obstacles, you persisted and earned impressive degrees. Today, we celebrate you and acknowledge the friends and family who supported you on this important and life-changing journey.

You, the Class of 2023, have developed the strengths and abilities which will benefit you and your families and communities. I am hopeful that you have felt the satisfaction of accomplishment and the joy of learning and experienced the inspiration to create the better days we all hope lie ahead of us. The degrees you have earned, the knowledge you have gained, the skills you have developed and the friends you have made at San Francisco State University will endure long into the future.

You are now alumni of San Francisco State. You are taking the first steps that will allow you to do extraordinary things, and I know you will represent our University proudly, just as we feel pride in your accomplishments. Throughout our history, SF State graduates have demonstrated a desire to make a positive impact in the community and the world. You are now among the more than 286,000 SF State alumni who are making a difference in the Bay Area, across the state and nation and around the world.

It is my distinct honor to congratulate you and to celebrate you today as SF State graduates!

Go Gators!

President
Lynn Mahoney, Ph.D.
Dear Class of 2023,

I offer you my most enthusiastic and heartfelt congratulations on achieving this consequential milestone on the journey of a lifetime.

Today, we celebrate you — and all the hard work, perseverance and scholarship that brought you here. You will undoubtedly look back on this occasion for many years to come, filled with a well-earned sense of pride in your accomplishments — and maybe even a sense of relief for attaining a goal that, at times, might have felt more than a little daunting.

As numerous forces upended our world, you held firmly onto your dreams and persisted in your studies through challenges none of us could have foreseen or imagined. You have by necessity developed and demonstrated skills — far beyond your academic work — that will ensure your continued success: resilience, flexibility, resourcefulness, patience and tenacity. Your resolve shines brightly as a symbol of hope and optimism. It is admirable. And it is inspiring.

Of course, you did not make this journey alone. We also recognize the faculty who deepened your knowledge and enabled you to see the world from new perspectives. We acknowledge the counselors, tutors, advisors, librarians, coaches and support staff who championed you at every turn. And we appreciate the family, friends and loved ones who encouraged you, uplifted you and supported you along the way. Please remember to thank these important people and let them know how much their support means.

This celebration marks a new beginning for you — a time to commence a new life, filled with opportunities and prospects made possible by your degree from the California State University.

With this rite of passage we call “commencement,” you will join a dynamic, global network of more than 4 million CSU alumni. They are a remarkable force for good, and I am certain your addition to their ranks will multiply their contributions to our communities, to our state and to the world. I ask that — in the Cal State spirit — you use the knowledge, skills and personal qualities you have developed to work for justice, seek opportunities to foster equity and always uplift and empower others. Stay connected to your campus and look for ways to give back. And whenever possible, support future generations who aspire to follow in your footsteps.

Sincerely,

Jolene Koester

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

JAYSHREE ULLAL (B.S., ’81)
Business Leader and Industry Spokesperson

JAYSHREE ULLAL is president and CEO for Arista Networks, a position she’s held since 2008. She’s responsible for leading the cloud networking company to a successful IPO on the New York Stock Exchange in June 2014 and shepherding its entry into the S&P 500 in 2018.

Prior to joining Santa Clara-based Arista, Ullal worked at Cisco Systems for 15 years and rose to the rank of senior vice president, reporting directly to the company’s CEO. She was responsible for the modular Nexus and Catalyst Data Center Switching products and Application/Security services. She oversaw more than a dozen mergers and acquisitions in the enterprise sector and $15 billion in annual revenue.

She began her career with engineering and strategy positions at Advanced Micro Devices and Fairchild Semiconductor. She later joined Crescendo Communications — a company that was acquired by Cisco Systems — where she became a director of marketing.

She’s been recognized by several publications and organizations as a top business leader, including Forbes, which named her “one of the top five most influential people in the networking industry in 2012.” Barron’s named her one of the World’s Best CEOs in 2018. She was also included in Fortune’s list of the Business People of the Year in 2019. She has mentored several high-tech networking firms in Silicon Valley as a board member or advisor and is a prominent industry spokesperson. Most recently, she was named the 2023 Global Indian of the Year by The Economic Times.

Ullal was born in London and raised in New Delhi, India. She studied electrical engineering at SF State, graduating in 1981. She earned a master’s degree in Engineering Management from Santa Clara University in 1986. In 2013 she received the Santa Clara University School of Engineering Distinguished Engineering Alumni Award. She was inducted into SF State’s Alumni Hall of Fame in 2016. She lives in Saratoga with her husband and two daughters.
HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENT

BEN FONG-TORRES (B.A., ’66)
Author, Journalist and Broadcaster

BEN FONG-TORRES has been many things in a long, illustrious career: radio DJ, author, newspaper columnist, magazine editor and TV host, just to name a few. But it was his stint at Rolling Stone magazine that made him famous — so much so that actor Terry Chen portrayed him in “Almost Famous,” Cameron Crowe’s 2000 film about a budding rock journalist. So “movie character” can be added to his already singular resume. He is the subject of “Like a Rolling Stone: The Life & Times of Ben Fong-Torres,” now on Netflix.

Fong-Torres began working for Rolling Stone as a writer in 1968, two years after graduating from SF State. He eventually became senior editor, going on to interview some of the most prominent musicians of the time, including Bob Dylan, The Rolling Stones, Marvin Gaye, Paul McCartney and many more. He won the Deems Taylor Award in 1974 for magazine writing for a profile of Ray Charles.

After leaving Rolling Stone in 1981, he wrote for several top magazines, including GQ, Esquire, Parade, Sports Illustrated, Playboy, Harper’s Bazaar and more. In 1983 he became a feature writer and radio columnist for The San Francisco Chronicle. He left in 1992 to write books, including his memoir, “The Rice Room: Growing Up Chinese American / From Number Two Son to Rock and Roll,” which made the San Francisco Chronicle Bestseller list. He’s written ten other books about musicians and the music industry.

Fong-Torres was also a weekend DJ on KSAN from 1970 to 1980. Later, he was the host of KQED-FM’s live, weekly arts show, “Fog City Radio.” He has a DJ show on www.MoonaliceRadio.com. He won five Emmys for his coverage of San Francisco’s Chinese New Year parades, which he co-anchored on KTVU.

Fong-Torres is the son of two Chinese immigrants. He was born in Alameda and raised in Oakland’s Chinatown, where his parents owned a restaurant. He graduated from SF State in 1966 with a degree in Radio-Television-Film. He met his wife Dianne Sweet while they were both SF State students. In 2004, he was named SF State’s Alumni of the Year. A year later, he delivered the University’s Commencement address. He emcees community and fund-raising events, including SF State’s annual Alumni Hall of Fame celebration.
SATUKI INA is a Japanese American activist, filmmaker, author and psychotherapist. She was born in a concentration camp at the Tule Lake Segregation Center during World War II. Her parents were incarcerated for four and a half years. This experience has been both a source of trauma and inspiration, informing much of her work in her adult life.

Ina was a psychotherapist for 30 years and helped thousands of formerly imprisoned Japanese American families cope with the trauma they experienced during their incarceration. She has also helped other groups who have endured similar traumatic experiences. She is a professor emeritus in the School of Education at California State University, Sacramento. She has also published research on the long-term effects of collective trauma.

She produced two award-winning documentary films about the incarceration of Japanese Americans during World War II. “Children of the Camps” debuted on PBS in 1999. In 2005, she produced a second documentary film, “From a Silk Cocoon,” which was based on letters exchanged between her parents while held in separate prison camps. It was awarded a Northern California Emmy for Outstanding Cultural and Historical Programming.

Since retiring, she co-founded Tsuru for Solidarity, a grassroots coalition formed to protest government policies incarcerating innocent children and families. In 2020 she received an American Psychological Association Presidential Citation for her work with the organization.

She graduated from the University of California, Berkeley in 1966 with a degree in Social Welfare/Psychology and holds a Ph.D. in Counseling Psychology from Oregon State University, which she earned in 1986.

REPRESENTING BACCALAUREATE DEGREE CANDIDATES

NICOLE BAÑUELOS
B.A., Biology
College of Science & Engineering

Nicole Bañuelos overcame many challenges to complete her Biology degree with highest honors. While an undergraduate at SF State, she worked as a frontline healthcare worker during the peak of the COVID-19 pandemic and raised two children as a single mother.

Driven to make a difference in underprivileged communities, Bañuelos joined Biology Professor Blake Riggs’ research lab to study the toxicological effects of parabens, small molecules commonly found in food and personal care products. Her studies modeling human breast, ovarian and fallopian tube cancers revealed some of the potential dangers of everyday exposure to parabens and how they can impact DNA, fertility, lifespan and more.

Her international presentations, delivered in both English and Spanish, have won awards. In 2022, she earned first place at the SF State Research Conference in the Department of Biological and Agricultural Sciences category, and won a presentation award at the Annual Research Conference for Minoritized Students. Her list of accolades includes being a Genentech Foundation Scholar for three years and a recipient of the Hispanic Foundation of Silicon Valley Latinos in Technology Scholarship.

Bañuelos is also dedicated to mentorship, particularly of young women interested in STEM fields. Beyond academia, she serves her community as a homeless outreach specialist, domestic violence advocate and peer counselor. She has received a United States Senate Certificate of Commendation, California State Legislature Certificate of Recognition and more for her service work.
MICHELLE FU
B.S., Accounting
Lam Family College of Business

A first-generation college student, Michelle Fu chose to study Accounting because it’s essential to operating a business efficiently and effectively. In her four years at SF State, she maintained a 3.94 GPA. With her classes, she already met the 150 credit hours required for a CPA license.

Fu is dedicated to serving her community. She volunteered more than 200 hours in the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) Program, providing valuable assistance to individuals and families in need of help preparing their tax returns. In 2021, she became a site supervisor for VITA, coordinating the efforts of other volunteers and overseeing the successful operation of the VITA site.

During her time at SF State, she participated in student organizations and held various positions in the accounting honors society, Beta Alpha Psi (BAP) — Beta Chi Chapter. As the group’s director of professional development, she planned and executed the second Virtual Meet the Firms event during spring of 2021, which provided opportunities for students to virtually connect with potential employers.

Before graduation, Fu received an offer as an assurance associate for Ernst & Young, where she plans to continue learning and growing as a professional. Her long-term goal is to become an entrepreneur, using the knowledge and skills she gained from her education and professional experience to create a successful business.

ALEXIZ ORTIZ
B.S., Speech, Language and Hearing Sciences
Graduate College of Education

Alexiz Ortiz became interested in the world of audiology during his junior year of undergraduate studies. He found the science behind our hearing mechanism and balance fascinating. But it was also apparent that there was not a lot of diversity in the audiology workforce, sparking concerns in Ortiz about how the field is reaching out to underserved populations. He hopes to create universal resources for patients with diverse socioeconomic, racial and cultural backgrounds.

One of Ortiz’s many contributions while at SF State was joining Gray Matter Lab — which focuses on serving people who have language disorders like aphasia and come from historically marginalized communities — as a research assistant. He is also a part of the inaugural student group for research in the Speech, Language and Hearing Sciences (SLHS) Audiology Lab. He has served as president of the Student Academy of Audiology over the last year, organizing presentations for all SLHS students and providing mentoring for all students in the program’s audiology courses.

Ortiz will continue his studies in the doctoral program of Audiology (AuD) at San José State University starting fall 2023.

CASSANDRA MARIE OSORIO
B.S., Kinesiology
College of Health & Social Sciences

Cassandra “Cassy” Marie Osorio began her academic journey in 2009 at the University of Wisconsin, Green Bay. Unable to focus on school, she left in 2011 and joined the U.S. Navy, where she spent the next eight years of her life. During that time, she was able to try out different roles, including command career counselor, where she advised enlisted personnel on retention and promotion and helped them identify next steps and areas to work on. She was also an assistant command fitness leader, training and educating sailors to meet the Navy’s minimum fitness standards.

While stationed in San Diego she was committed to the naval and local communities. She provided care at a women’s shelter, volunteered at the Ronald McDonald House Charities and provided physical activity experiences and academic support to elementary school children in an underserved community. Lastly, she supported the work of the Navy’s Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) team by coordinating their 5K Run/Walk.

She left the Navy in 2019 and decided to return to college to earn an undergraduate degree in Kinesiology. By then she was married with a young daughter. She transferred to SF State from City College of San Francisco in 2021 and maintained exceptional grades while also being a full-time caregiver to her now two children.

Osorio was an undergraduate teaching assistant for two courses and served as president of the Kinesiology Student Association. She is currently exploring careers in occupational therapy and fitness and wellness.
EMILY GÓMEZ URBINA
B.A., History/French
College of Liberal & Creative Arts

Emily Gómez Urbina was born in Los Angeles, but moved to South San Francisco as a child with her mom and brother after losing her father. She still feels like she is from L.A., but has adopted the fog, weather and, most importantly, the Giants as her own.

Urbina, a perennial Dean’s List honoree, is the first in her family to graduate from a four-year university and is proud of her Mexican heritage. She is passionate about bringing awareness to the deep-rooted Latinx involvement in the culture and politics of South San Francisco, the Peninsula city located six miles from SF State.

Urbina’s internship with the Historical Society of South San Francisco was a defining experience in her SF State tenure, giving her the opportunity to research the history of the Latinx community of her second hometown. She dug through the society’s collections, pored over old newspapers and conducted oral history interviews. As an aficionado of local history, she not only loved giving a voice to underrepresented people, but also discovering artifacts, especially vintage baseball uniforms.

Urbina is also an extraordinarily talented student of French. Her diligence and creativity have been an inspiration to all. Her coursework reveals original insights and sophisticated critical thinking.

Her professors describe her as extremely conscientious, smart, thorough and kind. Her capstone project explored the Compromise of 1850 and the question of slavery in California’s bid for statehood.

After graduation, she wants to continue museum work, committing to present a non-Eurocentric view of history.

GLADYS MARITZA AGUILAR VITAL
B.A., Latina/Latino Studies and Race and Resistance Studies
College of Ethnic Studies

Gladys Maritza Aguilar Vital (they/them) is a first-generation student, activist and community member with a strong commitment to their communities. They are exactly the type of student for whom the 1968 Third World Liberation Front strikers envisioned the College of Ethnic Studies.

Being raised by a farm worker father and a hard-working mother, education became an important tool. They are the first one in their family to graduate from high school and continue onto higher education. Vital draws from their experience as a working-class Xicana English-learner who had to care for their two younger siblings since they were nine years old and graduated from a continuation high school. This experience has fundamentally informed their work. From building a Smithsonian-supported archive of Bracero labor in Napa Valley and uplifting the voices of farmers within their community to continuing to expand their work rooted in liberation as a student mentor in the College of Ethnic Studies, Vital is committed to creating spaces of healing, resistance, solidarity and transformation. They are graduating with a B.A. in Latina/Latino Studies and Race and Resistance Studies and a minor in Africana Studies and Political Science with a pre-law certificate and plan to take their skills and passions for community, health care, housing and immigration to the legal field.
WILLIAM THOMAS BROGAN
MBA
Lam Family College of Business

After earning an undergraduate degree in Biochemistry and Cell Biology in 2015 from the University of California, San Diego, William Thomas Brogan moved home to the Bay Area and worked in marketing for life science products and research. Wanting to bridge his knowledge gap between science and business, Brogan decided to pursue an MBA with an emphasis in sustainability. He chose SF State’s Lam Family College of Business because his mom’s family all attended the University and led successful careers.

At SF State, Brogan achieved excellence inside and outside of the classroom, spending much of his time serving the Center for Ethical and Sustainable Business, Net Impact (SF State Chapter) and the SF State Office of Sustainability.

In addition to his MBA, Brogan completed a Graduate Certificate in Sustainable Business. The program included a course specifically designed to develop innovative business strategies to address society’s unmet emerging needs. For his final course project, he explored the social, economic and environmental advantages of a decentralized, locally-owned electricity grid. He developed a business plan that would provide low-cost power to remote regions using solar and other renewable sources. The primary goal of his project was to equip local stakeholders with the necessary infrastructure and training for a clean energy transition — ultimately improving community health and economic development while fortifying national energy security.

He currently works in Hayes Valley as a retail lead for the sustainable outdoor brand Cotopaxi. He also volunteers for the American Youth Soccer Organization (AYSO) as a referee and coach alongside his dad.
Brogan says he was able to reach this moment thanks to the unyielding support and patience of his family, girlfriend, roommates, friends and coworkers. He dedicates this achievement to his aunt and fellow MBA Jayne Brogan, along with his uncle and fellow Gator Patrick Boland.

CRISTINA CABILES
M.S., Clinical Mental Health Counseling
College of Health & Social Sciences

Cristina Cabiles graduates from the Department of Counseling with a master’s in Clinical Mental Health Counseling with an emphasis in career counseling. She brings her lived experience to her training and her work. As a woman of color, she understands the needs of BIPOC communities and approaches them with cultural humility, compassion and exceptional advocacy.

While at SF State she pursued a number of internships, which resulted in structural changes within the organizations. In her first-year internship she served as a behavioral health intern at the Daly City Youth Health Center, providing counseling and resources to students in a school setting. In her second-year internship, she was a wellness counseling intern in the Jefferson Union High School District and provided clinical and employment counseling to students. She is a disability rights advocate and brings a social justice lens to all aspects of her work.

During the COVID-19 pandemic, she researched the lived experiences of people with disabilities during the pandemic and presented her findings at an international conference, as well as co-authored a manuscript, soon to be submitted for publication. Her culminating experience paper continued this focus as she explored the following topic: “Application of Family Systems Theory to Transition-Age Youth with Disabilities.”

She’s actively working to diversify the field of counseling by participating in the California Association for Licensed Professional Clinical Counselor Fellowship Mentorship Program, where she mentors other BIPOC students pursuing mental health counseling careers and counseling licensure.

A “boomerang Gator,” Cabiles earned her undergraduate degree in Health Education from SF State in 2014.
HASTI JAFARI
MFA, Creative Writing
College of Liberal & Creative Arts

For one graduate student from Iran studying abroad, San Francisco State provided such a newfound sense of belonging that it inspired them to “make increasingly more chaotic and authentic art.” Hasti Jafari, a playwright and theatre artist, has been extraordinarily active in the Creative Writing Department — whether they are creating a series of zines on the Jina revolution in Iran (also known as the “Woman, Life, Freedom” movement), writing comedic plays and creative nonfiction, volunteering or teaching.

Jafari dreams of creating spaces through theatre and teaching that empower others to be unapologetically themselves, because they could be anything but themself growing up. They have taken a leadership role in multiple communities to create cross-cultural works and build dialogue. Activities include publishing an op-ed and participating in a campus teach-in on the women’s movement in Iran, presenting a panel on social justice and pedagogy at the Association of Writers and Writing Programs conference, and volunteering in graduate student groups to develop inclusive teaching methods and writing practices. Jafari was also playwright-in-residence at the Ruth Asawa San Francisco School of the Arts.

Professor Michelle Carter, Jafari’s thesis committee director, describes their genre-crossing ingenuity: “Students have often marveled, ‘I’ve never seen anything like this.’ Hasti’s bold, original work defies description. Hasti has dazzled us with their inventiveness and offered brilliant, generous commentary to their peers. In diving ever deeper, Hasti creates new forms restlessly, inspiring us with their passionate questioning.”

RAYMOND LEROY LEBEAU
M.S., Geographic Information Science
College of Science & Engineering

Raymond Leroy LeBeau is a member of the Pit River Tribe in northeastern California with Cahuilla and Lakota family relations. He says his scientific interests really began when he was exposed to geographic information science as an undergraduate. As a Geographic Information Science master’s student at SF State, he had a personal interest in researching meadow systems.

He joined the University’s Geography department just as it was starting its Red Clover Valley project assessing innovative ways to restore and LeBeau is proud that his experiences in the Sierra Nevada extended beyond his thesis project. He worked with youth from the local Mountain Maidu community to install artificial beaver dams that mimic real dams and attract beavers to restored wetlands. He also helped support vegetation sampling and carbon flux measurements and even cleared cattle trespassing in an enclosure around the creek.

As a graduate student, LeBeau has been supported by several scholarships including the Cobell Scholarship and American Indian College Fund (AICF) Scholarships. He has been working in a student position with the U.S. Geological Survey and hopes to pursue a doctoral degree in the future.

EDEE MOORE
M.A., Ethnic Studies
College of Ethnic Studies

Mutual support and care are at the core of Edee Moore’s graduate-school experience in SF State’s College of Ethnic Studies. As a community-engaged scholar, she has played an integral role in creating a feeling of “home” for her peers as well as faculty and staff.

Moore’s thesis, “Third World Liberation Front or The College of Ethnic Studies: The Experience of Students of Color in the Face of a Global Pandemic,” employs archival research to examine how SF State responded to student needs at the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic and how students responded by forming their own communities of support, mutual care and self-care. The thesis asks questions rooted in the relationships of care that she has committed to building with other master of arts students — these extend beyond her immediate cohort.

Even while working full time, Moore has convened meeting groups of Ethnic Studies graduate students in order to support and mentor one another, study together and write together.
Moore plans to pursue a Ph.D. after completing her master’s degree. Her dissertation will extend her M.A. research findings to examine how the spirit of the Third World Liberation Front of 1968 and 1969 lives on through the relationships of care and mutual support that people develop with one another in the College of Ethnic Studies.

GAIL ANN RULLODA
Doctorate in Educational Leadership
Graduate College of Education

Gail Ann Rulloda is a loving wife, the mother of two beautiful kids and a lifelong learner of the world. She has found joy in working, co-learning and co-creating with students in early intervention, K-12 and higher education settings. She enacts social justice and equity in the institutions where she works, in her community and in her home. She is grounded in radical love and disability justice and seeks to resist perpetuating trauma and hurt through healing, learning and finding joy.

A notable feature of Rulloda’s work as a doctoral student, including her dissertation study, is that it was done as part of a unique partnership with San Lu, her life partner, fellow doctoral student and fellow community-engaged scholar. Rulloda’s achievements are linked to San Lu’s and provide evidence for the power of working together to practice authentic caring. Their relationship is a model for how we must work collectively to create long-lasting change in education.

Rulloda is a practitioner in the California community college system, with a life dedicated to supporting students who have been marginalized, specifically students who have been justice system-impacted and those with disabilities. Her dissertation focused on disrupting the dehumanization that justice system-impacted students experience in California community colleges. She has also contributed to the Ed.D. program by working as a graduate assistant supporting three classes. While a doctoral student, she worked on a major program evaluation focused on ethnic studies and helped develop a course for the College of Ethnic Studies that will be part of new requirements for undergraduates and will contribute to the new ethnic studies curriculum for California public schools. She and San Lu presented their developing research findings at the prestigious AERA annual conference in 2022 and continue to present their findings at other important professional conferences across the country.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

Participation in today’s 122nd Commencement exercise links our graduates and faculty with scholastic antiquity. Many of the rituals seen at this ceremony stem from the European Middle Ages, when the church was the center of learning. At that time, academic gowns were a common form of dress retained by the clergy when the laity adopted more modern styles. The early European universities were founded by the church, and students, being clerics, were obliged to wear the prescribed gown at all times.

All San Francisco State graduates wear special robes of royal purple, one of the University’s official colors. The gown worn at the Commencement ceremony is indicative of the degree being awarded. Bachelor’s gowns have pointed sleeves; master’s gowns have oblong sleeves cut square at the end, with wrist openings; and doctoral gowns have bell-shaped sleeves with three velvet bands (symbolizing the third and highest academic degree) and velvet facings to the front. All gowns are designed to be worn closed, unlike many of their European counterparts.

All students awarded bachelor’s degrees wear a mortarboard cap, also of royal purple. On entering the stadium, the tassel is positioned to the right of the cap. During the ceremony, at the moment of graduation, the tassel is moved to the left of the cap, signifying conferral of the bachelor’s degree. Students receiving master’s degrees also wear a purple mortarboard, but with the tassel already positioned on the left of the cap. Students being awarded a doctoral degree wear a black velvet tam.

The size and shape of the academic hood and the width of its velvet edging also help to identify the level of the degree that the wearer has earned. Hoods designating the bachelor’s degree (worn here today only by the students chosen to represent their colleges) are 36 inches; those for the master’s degree are 42 inches; those for the doctoral degree are 48 inches and also include a cape, visible at the side. The shell of the hood is lined with the official color, or colors, of the college or university conferring the degree. San Francisco State University’s are purple and gold. More than one color is often displayed in V-shaped stripes, known as chevrons. The color of the hood’s velvet border indicates the field or discipline in which the degree is granted. SF State’s master’s degree hoods are edged in the following colors:

- Business .................... Drab (light brown)
- Education ......................... Light blue
- Ethnic Studies ..................... Crimson
- Health & Social Sciences .......... Gold
- Nursing ................................. Apricot
- Liberal & Creative Arts .............. White
- Science & Engineering ............. Gold

Our faculty have earned degrees at top universities around the nation and the world. As they process into the stadium, their regalia make for a colorful display. The linings of their hoods (and sometimes the color of their gowns) identify the institutions from which they earned their degrees. Leading the Platform Party in the ceremony today is the chair of the Academic Senate, Professor Michael A. Goldman, who carries the University mace, an ancient symbol of order and authority in both the civic and academic worlds.
ABOUT SAN FRANCISCO STATE UNIVERSITY

For 124 years, San Francisco State University has distinguished itself as a vibrant center of scholarship, innovation and community engagement. Though it began as a school for local educators, today its more than 286,000 graduates are leaders in science, business, public service, journalism and the arts — virtually every sphere of activity — around the globe.

Founded in 1899 by an act of the California legislature, the San Francisco State Normal School was created to fill the city’s acute need for well-trained, experienced teachers. The school’s first location was a rented two-story building atop Nob Hill. The first graduating class — the class of 1901 — consisted of three dozen students, all women. Within a decade the normal school earned a solid reputation for its high-caliber graduates, innovative teaching methods and emphasis on practical experience.

In the 1920s, the school began offering the bachelor of arts degree. When the Great Depression sharply curtailed the need for new teachers, the school expanded its programs to include a full liberal arts curriculum. In 1935, it became San Francisco State College. Its first master’s degree, in education, was offered in 1949.

Enrollment quadrupled in the five years following World War II. To accommodate growing demand, the college moved in 1954 to its present campus near Lake Merced, which now encompasses more than 140 acres. To bring intellectual cohesion to its evolving curriculum, San Francisco State developed the General Education program — a nationally known model requiring all students to take a unified core set of courses. In 1961, the college joined what would become the 23-campus California State University system and in 1974 was renamed San Francisco State University.

Today the university has a diverse student body of more than 25,000. The University offers numerous degrees and certifications: bachelor’s degrees in 83 academic areas with an additional 41 areas of concentration, master’s degrees in 72 academic areas with an additional 35 areas of concentration, a Doctor of Education (Ed.D.) in Educational Leadership, a Ph.D. in Education with a concentration in special education, a clinical doctorate of physical therapy (D.P.T.) jointly with University of California, San Francisco, 19 credential programs and 45 certificate programs. While justifiably renowned as a teaching university, SF State is also associated with outstanding research and scholarly activity in the arts, sciences, business, health, humanities and many other disciplines. The University attracts world-class faculty as well as extensive grants and contracts for cutting-edge research.

SF State’s reach extends far beyond its Lake Merced campus, as well. In Marin County, the University’s Estuary & Ocean Science Center trains the next generation of marine scientists while monitoring the health of the Bay and its tidal marshes, eelgrass meadows and beaches. Located in the forests near the North Yuba River, the Sierra Nevada Field Campus gives students an immersive opportunity for learning about biological diversity, geosciences, hydrology, astronomy and more. And SF State’s College of Professional & Global Education, based at the Downtown Campus on Spear Street, offers a variety of continuing education courses, academic credit certificates and professional development certificates designed to advance careers and expand opportunities.

The University also reaches out through its long-standing commitment to community service. Hands-on learning and engaged citizenship have been hallmarks of an SF State education since its first president, Frederic Burk, chose Experientia Docet — Experience Teaches — as the school’s motto. Acting on the principle that learning cannot be isolated from the world in which it is applied, the University partners with the community through many of its classes and a wide range of centers and institutes, including the Health Equity Institute, the Marian Wright Edelman Institute, the Veteran Documentary Corps and the Paul K. Longmore Institute on Disability. SF State’s Institute for Civic and Community Engagement was launched to connect students, staff and faculty members with service opportunities that strengthen both their skills and the surrounding communities.

As a result of these efforts, SF State’s leadership as a values-driven institution is widely recognized, and Money Magazine named it one of the most transformative universities in the nation. SF State’s proudest achievement, however, remains the thousands of graduates who are putting the skills, insights and ideals nurtured at the University to work. Recent graduates have joined these legions of accomplished alumni who are putting their passion into action around the world — and making the world a better place in the process.

LOST AND FOUND
If a guest has lost an item during the ceremony, they should contact the nearest Ballpark Operations or Guest Services staff member for assistance. Found items might also be turned in to Ballpark Operations or Guest Services staff. Items will be held for one week. Unclaimed items will be donated to charity. To report or claim a lost item during or after an event, please visit the Lost and Found section of the Giants website at www.mlb.com/giants/ballpark/lost-and-found.

PHOTOGRAPHS
We know this is a special day and that families and friends of graduates want to take photographs. Because of access restrictions, however, this is not possible. A professional photography company will be taking photos prior to graduates entering the ballpark and as they accept their diploma onstage. Graduates will receive order forms directly from the company.
